SOUL CARE SPEAKER SERIES

Honoring the Ancestors in the Grieving and Dying Process

Presented by Daniel Foor, Ph.D.

Wednesday January 11, 2023, noon-1:30 p.m.

Death is a time of major soul-level change and the start of a journey of return to the ancestors. In complement to psychological perspectives, the world's wisdom traditions provide ample guidance on ways to proactively honor and welcome the support of the ancestors in these times of transition. Join us for an inclusive, cross-cultural exploration of ancestrally-resourced approaches to death and loss. Expect a bit of experiential practice and ample time for questions.

Daniel Foor, Ph.D., is a teacher and practitioner of practical animism who specializes in ancestral and family healing and in helping folks learn to relate well with the rest of life. He is a Doctor of Psychology, marriage and family therapist, founder and director at Ancestral Medicine, and author of Ancestral Medicine: Rituals for Personal and Family Healing. His recent ancestors are settler-colonialists to North America from England, Germany, and Ireland, and he now lives with his wife and two daughters in Granada, Spain.
